When a user opens the meeting page, they should first fill out the form on a new page by entering their name and other required details. After submitting the information, the user can select an available schedule time from the meeting slots. Only available time slots should be displayed, while already booked slots must be hidden to prevent double bookings.

Dear [Name],
your meeting request has been approved. Your meeting is scheduled for [Date] at [Time] with [Company Name]. The meeting has been confirmed and added to the schedule. We look forward to meeting with you.

Once the admin accepts a meeting request, a confirmation email should be automatically sent to the user. The approved meeting should then be added to the calendar, and the selected date and time slot should be marked as booked to prevent duplicate reservations. The meeting details should also be updated in the database and reflected immediately on the dashboard. All booked slots and schedules should be displayed accurately, and users should only be able to view and select available time slots.
